
Meet, think and connect in an inspiring setting

Welcome to Nettlecombe Court, a special place to make the most of your events.

Nettlecombe Court lies in a secluded valley at the eastern edge of Exmoor National Park. The house is a striking example of a Tudor and Georgian country mansion, set in its own grounds. The grounds include heritage parkland, ancient woodland and a Site of Special Scientific Interest, making it the perfect location for environmental interest groups to gather for away days, meetings and team building.

The centre features a variety of rooming options, from classrooms to the hall and we have outside space too. The centre is perfect for self-led groups, but we can also provide catering and activities.

All activities are expertly led and delivered by competent, qualified staff in a safe, inclusive environment.
