

“Nettlecombe is perfectly positioned to make the most of the Somerset’s spectacular countryside.”

Nettlecombe Court lies in a secluded valley at the eastern edge of Exmoor National Park. The house is a striking example of a Tudor and Georgian country mansion. The grounds are made up of heritage parkland, ancient woodland containing many veteran oak trees as well as a Site of Special Scientific Interest because of its lichen communities. Nettlecombe Court has excellent access to the Somerset coast as well as Exmoor National Park (a Dark Skies area) and The Quantocks Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. It is approximately half an hour from Taunton and the motorway network. Taunton railway station is less than 2 hours from London. All accommodation is in the main house which can accommodate up to approximately 120 people. Rooms vary in size, and all have access to recently refurbished bathroom facilities or en-suites.
